

Product Overview

Range Systems lane dividers organize the firing lane into defined shooting positions, provide a location for mounting local target controls and offer protection from adjacent shooting positions. The proper lane dividers for your range can dramatically improve the perception and reality of the safety and quality of the range.

The Fortress™ divider system provides the ultimate in performance and safety. Fully customizable from floor to ceiling, it's built for ranges seeking safety with modern design. It integrates seamlessly into new or existing range layouts.
